How to outsource work to the computer?

This is what we teach in our Excel trainings – Now with 20% discount*

When we are working on a computer it is an imperative to keep finding new ways to delegate more and more work to the machine. Activities which support this:

- Automating regular tasks – with or without using macro programming
- Building embedded processes for summary tables and reconciliations with integrated error detection and proofing functions
- Using limiting fields and predefined summary schemes when creating templates for manual data collection
- Using both hands while working on the computer

We stimulate the more effective use of time and the human intellect:

- Prior to the training we conduct personal knowledge assessment interviews
- Using the interviews' results we tailor the course content for our groups
- We utilize Lean and 6 Sigma mindset to foster increasing productivity
- Our trainings have modular setup, with typically 2-day long duration
- We offer beginner, intermediate, advanced and macro programming trainings
- We provide trainings on-site for our clients

Having hundreds of hours of training experience and customers like Aegon Magyarország, Obi Magyarország or Corvinus University
